Contemporary Bathrooms

Designed with you at Hart

75 years at the Hart of bathroom design.

Charles Percival Hart started the business in South London in 1937. With his sons, John and Tom, he began searching Europe to source the very best in bathroom design. In doing so, they led the revolution from standard 1960s suites (in any colour as long as it was Avocado) to the huge choice of designer bathrooms available today.

John Hart - 1982

TRANSFORMATIONS

The Ampersand Hotel

South Kensington, London.

The design-led Ampersand Hotel in South Kensington, London is one of an increasing number of boutique hotels which have made full use of C.P. Hart's bathroom expertise. Our advisors can ensure new regulations for sustainability and accessibility are met without compromising style or function.

The bathroom experience can, of course, be one of the greatest pleasures of a great hotel, and anyone staying at the Ampersand will leave with new ideas for their home.

TRANSFORMATIONS

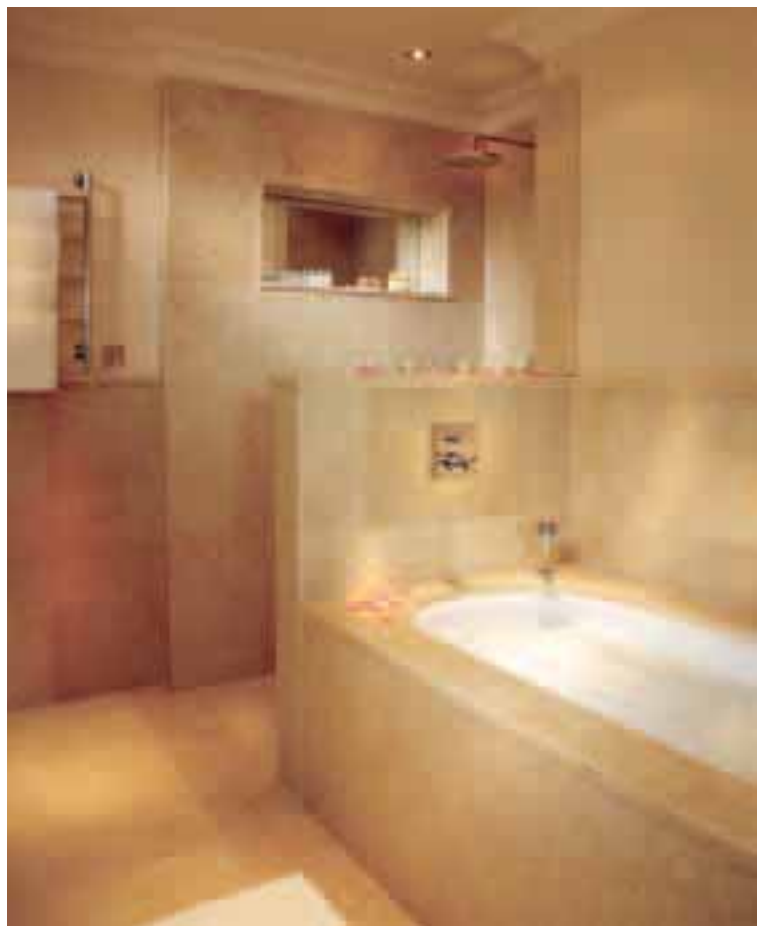

Stoke Park Club

Buckinghamshire.

The 5-star Stoke Park Hotel, Spa and Golf Club was Britain's first country club in 1908. More recently it was pronounced one of Vanity Fair's 'must visit spas of the world'.

C.P. Hart selected products in keeping with the overall design vision, but also that were sufficiently robust for a hotel environment.

Creating new bathrooms as part of this major refurbishment enabled our designers to continue the fusion of heritage-rich elegance and contemporary luxury for which Stoke Park is now acclaimed.

TRANSFORMATIONS

Berglan Court

Limehouse, London.

A chic district of London. A penthouse suite. A contemporary refurbishment with new bathrooms. The perfect brief for C.P. Hart.

Selection of the set-pieces was important, but the skill and care with which finishes and lighting are designed can set the seal on a really special bathroom.

We used floor up-lighters to accentuate the curves of the free standing ios bath and created a bathroom with distinctly defined zones – a relaxation area and a spa-like bathing area.

CONTEMPORARY BATHROOMS

by C.P. Hart

We keep our fingers on the pulse of design and combine this with technical experience accumulated over 75 years in bathrooms to bring you an ever-evolving range of ultra-chic, contemporary collections.

Wanders

Designer Marcel Wanders needs no introduction. He describes his latest collection for Bisazza Bagno as 'deriving from a fantasy of mine, taking a bath immersed in soap: the apotheosis of clean!'. With its mix of baroque and pop influences, the collection showcases Wander's distinctive elegance and wit.

Organico

Spanish artist, industrial designer and darling of the European design and style media, Jaime Hayon describes himself as a non-conformist and perfectionist. His neo-Baroque Organico collection includes a truly magnificent double-width bath - combining elegance, decadence and style in a way that perhaps only the new Spain is capable of. Accessories and basins are available in gold, platinum, black or white finishes.

CONTEMPORARY BRASSWARE

by C.P. Hart

A guide to BRASSWARE

The right choice of brassware can make a huge difference to the personality of a room, so it's worth exploring all the options with your designer at the outset.

Whether you're looking to contrast, complement or emphasise elements of the ceramic design, this guide explains the fundamentals.

Three-Hole Basin Mixer

Separate tap valves feed water through a central spout. These mixers often incorporate a pop-up waste lever.

Monobloc Basin Mixer

Occupying a single taphole and available in both modern and traditional styles. Contemporary monobloc mixers are more often in the style of a single lever that controls both flow and temperature, whereas traditional monobloc mixers incorporate separate hot and cold hand-wheels.

Wall Mounted Basin Mixers

These mixers (taps) are fixed to the wall with concealed pipework, leaving the basin and surrounds looking clean and spacious – perfect for a contemporary-style bathroom.

Bath Fillers

Fillers mix the hot and cold water before it leaves the spout:

One-Piece Filler

Fitting two standard tapholes, this single contemporary unit features separate controls and a central spout. Adjustments can be made to enable mounting behind the rim, on floor legs or onto the wall.

Three-Piece Filler

Two tap valves and a spout can be mounted either on the side or end of the bath, or on the wall. This flexible configuration gives the option of mounting the pieces in unconventional positions, providing the projection of the spout is sufficient to go over the rim of the bath. In a contemporary setting the spout could even be replaced with an overflow filler.

Bath/Shower Mixers

Available in contemporary and traditional styles, these offer a versatile bathroom solution, with a diverter switching water-flow from spout to showerhead as required. Traditionally the shower handset rests in a cradle above the taps. But more contemporary styles fit onto decorative, freestanding floor legs for use with freestanding baths or may be converted to mount on the wall. Many wall-mounted options are available.

Four-Piece Bath/Shower Mixer

Consisting of two tap valves, a spout with a diverter and a handshower, a four-piece mixer requires four separate tapholes. This means that the bath will have to be specially drilled to order.

Five-Piece Bath/Shower Mixer

Offering the same features and benefits as the four-piece mixer, this set requires an additional taphole as the diverter is a separate unit.

Mechanisms

The contemporary tap uses a ceramic disc that rotates to control the flow of water, unlike the traditional tap which uses a rubber washer. On the outside, the main difference of the ceramic tap is that it only requires a quarter rotation to turn it on or off.

Pressure and Flow Rates

The pressure of your water supply may affect your choice of brassware. Pressure requirements for products are included in this brochure, but we recommend discussing with your C.P. Hart Sales Advisor or Designer before making a final decision.

Moto

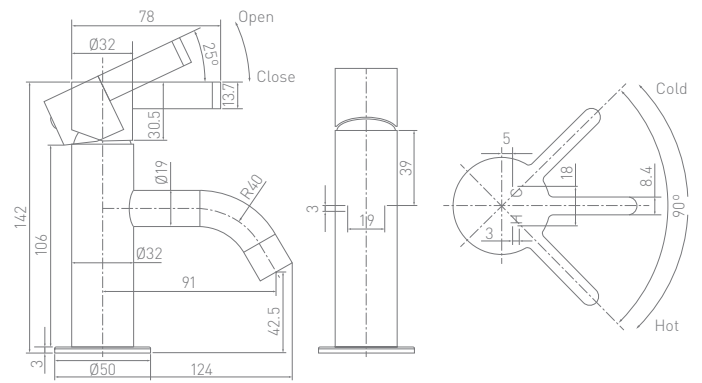

The simple, clean lines of the Moto range look effortless, but there is hard-working design technology within. The taps have a beautifully smooth and precise lever operation, for example. The bath mixer has a discreet, integrated diverter to switch between filler and hand shower. Attention to detail. Commitment to quality. The hallmarks of a C.P. Hart exclusive.

Libero

Chunky, squared-off and solid, the key feature is an open-spout that makes water a visible, organic element of the design. The Libero 'aqueduct' conveys old-style engineering values mixed with a very contemporary chrome plate finish.

The softly rounded curves make this range elegant and inconspicuous – a quiet statement of quality. The Ocean range is produced in the EU to the highest standards. Even the mechanics of turning taps on and off and directing water are virtually invisible, leaving only fluid, uninterrupted lines of its solid brass chrome plated construction.

Stainless Steel

A close-up photograph of a modern, cylindrical wall-mounted toilet brush holder. The holder is made of a polished, metallic material, likely chrome or stainless steel, and has a sleek, minimalist design. A matching cylindrical brush is inserted into the holder. The background is a soft, out-of-focus light color, possibly a wall or a bathroom fixture. The lighting is soft and even, highlighting the smooth texture and reflective surface of the metal.
