OUR BIGGEST EVER

Winter at HART

If you're finding the icy white of your bathroom rather cold and uninviting, then C.P.Hart is the place to visit this Winter. We have worked with House of Hackney, the London design house famed for their bold reinterpretation of Victorian and Edwardian patterns, to create two exciting new room sets at our award-winning Waterloo showroom. Infused with warm colours and the floral print of House of Hackney's new Limerence wallpaper, each set offers a wholly original interpretation of modern British design for the bathroom – with a little added Italian flair! For further inspiration, explore our just-launched 2017 collections – all 12 of them! – from some of the world's leading designers and manufacturers, many of which are exclusive to C.P.Hart in the UK. This Winter also heralds our largest ever Sale, with more products and greater reductions on offer than ever before. Our experienced sales consultants across our 14 showroom will be delighted to offer a warm welcome and a hot coffee.

PREMIUM

Flexible new furniture

Introducing Premium, C.P. Hart's new contemporary furniture collection. Premium is a chic, high-quality and flexible range of vanity units, available in 160 combinations of size and colour. The cabinetry is made in Belfast, home to a long tradition of luxury joinery going back to the heyday of Harland & Wolff and the White Star Line. The wood is thermo-treated to be impervious to water, however hostile the bathroom environment. The flawless ceramics are imported from Italy. Premium is available from the end of 2016, and although every piece is made to order the lead time is only 4 weeks. Ask in showrooms or via Direct Sales for further details.

FIL BRASSWARE

Made for C.P. Hart by Dornbracht

The launch of a new collection from Dornbracht is always a significant event in the design world. One of the leading manufacturers of premium brassware, Dornbracht draws its inspiration as much from art and artists as from technology and engineering. Their core ranges are the category benchmarks for design and quality. For C.P. Hart, FIL is very special, as Dornbracht have created this collection exclusively for us – an industry first. Far more important is that the design of FIL is itself something special. From the pen of Sieger Design, FIL marries a crisp slimline profile with a gently curved lever. Cool and refined in a chrome finish, it should also be considered in Dornbracht's unique Durabronz finish, which gives it warm, golden glow. See the full collection on our website.

SIEGER DESIGN

Internationally-renowned German design house, led by brothers Christian and Michael Sieger. Although they work on everything from textiles to espresso machines, their experience in bathroom product design is unrivalled. Sieger's clients include ceramics and furniture manufacturers Alape and Duravit, and their relationship with Dornbracht goes back over 30 years. FIL is the latest example of that extraordinary collaboration.

ASPECTS OF LONDON

C.P.Hart's London collection has been manufactured to our design and specification for over 40 years. It can be found in many of the capital's most prestigious hotels, as well as countless beautiful residential bathrooms. The profile and proportions of the sanitaryware reflect the style and refined elegance of the Edwardian era. It suits many types of bathroom, as the washbasin can be mounted on a pedestal or a chrome stand, or matched with its own furniture range, Hoxton. The ceramics are available in a flawless white or gleaming black. Indeed our recent collaboration with design house, House of Hackney, has shown us that our London collection can be strikingly modern in the right setting, as this picture shows. Perhaps most reassuring is that this much-loved product continues to be made in the same factory in the Potteries, to the same exacting standards, as it always has been.

NEW AT HART

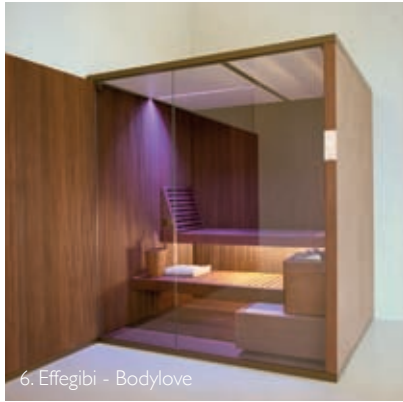

Eighty years after Charles Percival Hart put his name above the door of a builders and plumbers merchant in South London, C.P. Hart has arguably its most exciting year of new product launches. The Mutevole furniture collection is an undoubted highlight, with its bold use of mixed materials and colours. These can be specified in hundreds of combinations across cabinets, draws and doors, and surfaces. Combined with the bold geometry of the design, it is a true original from Italian makers, Karol. Equally innovative is Narciso from Cielo of Italy.

Narciso is a washbasin and steel-framed stand integrated with a make-up desk, complete with fold-down mirror and beauty case. Again, it can be personalised to create a highly individual unit. The washbasin is available in 16 colours, the frame can be matt black or brushed bronze, the make-up case can be lacquered or natural wood. Accessories include a lateral towel rail and a leather laundry bag. Artelinea's new Dama range was one of the hits of Salone del Mobile, the Milan furniture fair, blending Nordic design with Italian flair.

2017 will be a vintage year for new brassware. C.P. Hart have launched a luxurious new marble-bodied collection made in Italy called Marmo. Petraccer's new Aquadolce brassware is inspired by the glamour of classic perfume bottles, and Landmark by Samuel Heath offers industrial style with glamorous metallic finishes. Our unique collaboration with German manufacturers Dornbracht, FIL, is described elsewhere in this magazine. Find out more at any of our showrooms, or visit C.P. Hart Waterloo to see them all on display in our Exhibition Gallery.

80 Years Of C.P. Hart

1937 was not a promising year to start a new business. With a stuttering economy and an uncertain future, South London builder Charles Percival Hart nevertheless decided to establish himself as a builders and plumbers merchant. Encouraged by a house-building boom, and his own innate understanding of the needs of the trade, Charles opened the first of his London Road outlets. Together with his wife, a natural entrepreneur and trader, he quickly became known for expertise and service. His two sons, John and Tom, soon joined the business and looked for opportunities to expand. It was the acquisition of the railway arches behind Waterloo station that proved a turning point. In the late 1960's the London Development Council was still regenerating bomb-damaged areas of South London. Five C.P. Hart's had to close to make way for a grand new project at Elephant & Castle (now itself being regenerated). In a desperate search for large enough premises, the two brothers finally stumbled across the Waterloo arches. All they saw was empty wine racks, as the space was being vacated by Unwins, the wine and spirits merchant. Somehow they had the vision to see a bathroom showroom – as well as a trade counter, a warehouse and a workshop. Forty years later C.P. Hart has fourteen showrooms, including its flagship at Waterloo, where it has won multiple awards for its recent expansion. And eighty years after Charles Hart staked his name and reputation on a fledgling business, we remain faithful to his belief in expertise and service.

APPROVED INSTALLER PROGRAMME

The finest bathrooms are always distinguished by exceptional fit and finish. As bathrooms have become more sophisticated, so installation requires more highly-skilled and specialised practitioners. You need to be able to trust your installer to fit high value components correctly and with extreme care. C.P. Hart's Approved Installer programme is intended to remove any doubt over your choice of installer. Our Approved Installers have all undergone background checks, and must meet standards of care, service and behaviour. They are given training on new and complex products. All have their work regularly scrutinised by our Installer Manager, who can intervene on the rare occasion problems arise.

The process is very simple. Just talk to your C.P. Hart sales consultant, who will make initial contact with the installers for you and request quotes. You can then choose from a short-list of Approved Installers, knowing that each has the skills and professionalism to fit perfect bathroom.

STYLING WITH TILES

To give a tiled wall or floor maximum impact in the bathroom, the planning and design can be as important as the selection of the tile itself. On a simple level, we are seeing many rectangular tiles fitted in an offset brick pattern vertically rather than horizontally. It can make bathrooms in apartments which don't have generous head-height feel more spacious, or can just create an interesting juxtaposition to the long, flat profiles of furniture and inset baths. One of our new House of Hackney displays at our Waterloo showroom has tiles fitted in a chevron design, in graded colour bands. Versace Ceramics (pictured) must be carefully planned to make the most of their sophisticated design. Fortunately C.P. Hart has a specialist tile consultant, based at Waterloo, who can advise on both selection and tile planning. C.P. Hart's own exclusive tile collection is an fantastic place to start, offering excellent value on high-quality, specially-selected ranges. With many of these available with generous discounts during our Winter Sale, don't complete your bathroom purchase until you've considered tiles, and tile design.
